

Building Regulation: Energy Preservation and Privacy Act – Section 4.2

Windows and Openings:

To ensure maximum thermal insulation and protect occupant privacy, the construction of residential buildings in Zone C is subject to the following restriction:

! No windows or transparent openings are allowed on any external walls of the building.

This applies to all types of windows including:

- Standard hinged windows
- Sliding glass panels
- Skylights
- Glass doors

Ventilation must be handled through mechanical systems only.

This regulation is mandatory for all detached and semi-detached houses built after 2024.

Non-compliance will result in revocation of the construction permit.
